

CEC[▲] Refocus JUVENILE EDUCATION PROGRAM

CEC[▲]

REAL VICTORY

Reducing recidivism requires more than just a class. CEC provides the necessary steps for true change.

- ▶ Cognitive Restructuring
- ▶ Life Skills via online education
- ▶ Parental involvement
- ▶ Daily calls to track progress on goals

"I am excited about the cutting-edge educational program that CEC has developed. They have sown together ideas from social sciences with practical wisdom to develop and implement a program with the potential to not only reduce recidivism but improve lives. I think students who put time and effort into this program will enjoy it, learn from it, and see benefits from applying it."

*Sam A. Hardy, Ph.D. Psychology
Brigham Young University
Co-Creator of CEC's Juvenile Educational Course*

Problem.[▲] Solved.

Changing Behavior - Building Communities

CEC and RealVictory have joined forces to reinvent the way petty crimes are handled while impacting juvenile recidivism. CEC provides the core education material; RealVictory supports CEC's juveniles with a phone-coaching process that assists their personal action plan.

Participants receive daily phone calls that encourage their progress, support their development and habits, and change their lives. The calls are tailored to each individual's unique circumstances. The students also receive calls from their parents, guardians, mentors, and CEC Life Coaches.

CorrectiveEducation.com

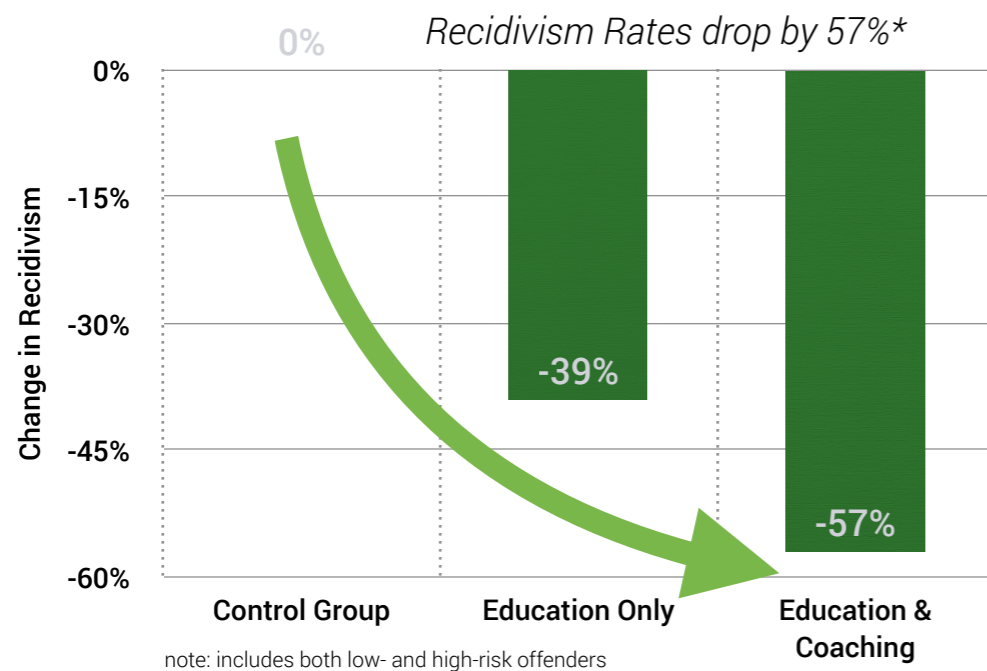

Who is Real Victory?

RealVictory, a 501c3 non-profit, has developed a unique combination of training and technology that significantly reduces recidivism among criminal offenders. Eight years of rigorous research conducted by Brigham Young University provides solid evidence that the RealVictory program helps people make lasting prosocial change.

The Experts:

- ▶ Bruce Bennett, MBA, Brigham Young University, RealVictory President
- ▶ Leslie Kawai, MOB, Brigham Young University, RealVictory Executive Director
- ▶ Stephen Bahr, PhD Sociology, Washington State, Criminologist
- ▶ David Cherrington, PhD Business Administration, Indiana University
- ▶ Bert Burraston, PhD Sociology, University of Oregon

Recidivism Research

Phone-Coach Student Feedback

"I was always aware. It helped with decision-making progress. Everyday calls kept my head focused."
- 4th District Court of Utah Youth Participant of Real Victory's phone-coaching program

"It helped because it kept my plan in focus all the time. It kept reminding me of what I wanted to do."
- Participant of Real Victory's phone-coaching program

"It was a struggle in the beginning and when you would get the phone call you knew you had to answer yes or no to them so there was accountability for the actions that I was doing."
- Participant of Real Victory's phone-coaching program

Proven
Results.

Reducing Recidivism

Reducing recidivism requires criminals to think differently and have support as they change. Many solutions address one or the other element; CEC and RealVictory have teamed up to solve both. CEC classes teach new life skills. The RealVictory Phone Coach delivers support outside the classroom.

Short, interactive phone calls help people stay focused, create self-accountability, and deliver encouraging messages from family, friends, and CEC life coaches. The result is long-term positive behavior change, documented by solid academic research.

RealVictory.org

Reducing Juvenile Delinquency With Automated Cell Phone Calls published in the International Journal of Offender Therapy and Comparative Criminology, 2013

Other Research: Reducing Juvenile Recidivism With Cognitive Training and a Cell Phone Follow-Up An Evaluation of the RealVictory Program